Moon, worn thin to the width of a quill,
In the dawn clouds flying,
How good to go, light into light, and still
Giving light, dying.

Paul J. Rudoj

Paul J. Rudoj, tenor vocalist and composer, has performed and recorded a wide range of music as a soloist and in various ensembles around the country. Early on in his career, he sang with the Blanche Moyse Chorale, the Sons of Orpheus, and the American Boychoir. Since 2008, he has been a member of the full-time vocal chamber ensemble Cantus and has performed with various artists including Bobby McFerrin, the Saint Paul Chamber Orchestra, and the James Sewell Ballet.

Though Paul composes for various instruments, his primary focus has always been vocal music. Sections of his song cycle Child of the Heartless Wind, based on poetry by Sara Teasdale, were premiered in early 2008, and his "Song of Unity," written for male chorus, was premiered shortly thereafter. In March of 2010, Paul was awarded a Subito grant from the American Composers Forum to record three of his choral works, including an arrangement of "I Wonder As I Wander" and a double choir setting of E.E. Cummings' "i carry your heart with me."

Paul holds a degree in vocal performance from the Hartt School in Hartford, Connecticut. His teachers have included Edward Bolkovac, Edie Hill, and Kevin Jones.
